Amanda M. Daquelente is an Associate in the firm's Corporate, Real Estate & Lending, and Private Clients Practice Groups.

Amanda's practice focuses primarily on a wide range of business and corporate transactions, including but not limited to, counseling clients on entity formation and structuring of business transactions, corporate governance, mergers and acquisitions, reorganizations, and the purchase and sale of businesses as well as business succession planning.

Amanda's work also focuses on all aspects of real estate transactions, including real estate acquisition and disposition, leasing and financing, and the representation of individuals and closely-held companies in a broad range of general corporate and real estate-related transactions.

As part of the firm's Private Clients Group, Amanda works with clients to develop estate-planning objectives including business succession, planning to minimize estate and inheritance tax liability, preserving family assets, supporting charitable interests, and providing for minors and individuals with special needs. She implements these objectives through the drafting of wills and trusts based upon each individual client's needs. In addition, she assists executors and trustees in the administration of a decedent's estate or trust.
